Town meeting OKs $735,605 including garage, new grader

Tax rate likely to increase 1 to 1.5 mills, official says

The expected floor fights over the proposed ambulance garage and a new grader failed to materialize, and Bethel town meeting voters approved budget expenditures of $735,605 in under 1½ hours Tuesday night. Less than 75 voters showed up for the annual meeting, held in the Telstar Regional High School auditorium. Bill Cousins served as moderator.

While there was no serious discussion of the ambulance garage or the new grader proposals, voters did raise questions about the warrant article to appropriate $100 for the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce, and it was defeated, 18-33.

Voters also debated the wisdom of increasing the per diem of school board members, from $10 to $15 for each school board meeting attended. (There are usually 24 to 26 meetings per year.) The warrant article passed, however, 31-22.

The article that was expected to stir the most controversy was Article 11, which proposed raising and appropriating $25,959 to cover the first year's loan repayment for the ambulance garage loan. Had the voters refused to raise and appropriate the loan repayment, the garage building project would have been dead, despite the March special town meeting vote authorizing the $72,241 project.

But the article passed, with just a single opposing vote.

The selectmen, Monday night, had signed a contract with local builder Peter Kuzyk to build the garage on a cost-plus basis and had also authorized the chairman of the board to sign a loan agreement with the Bethel Savings Bank to borrow the money for the project.

Both authorizations, however, carried the stipulations that a "no" vote on Article 11 would negate the board actions.

The selectmen had only two contractors' proposals to choose between—one from David Luxton and one from Mr. Kuzyk. Town Manager Rodney Lynch said the latter got the nod because Mr. Kuzyk's costs seemed to be lower.

This was the second round of proposals looked at. The board had wanted to give the job to David King, but he withdrew his bid just prior to a special town meeting last month called to, in effect, authorize that bid award.

Rebel teams bow to Madison in first round of state playoffs

Rebel baseballers and softballers journeyed to Madison Monday for the first round of the state Class C playoffs, and both teams were quickly eliminated. But not without putting up a good fight.

Both the Telstar boys and girls finished second in the Western Maine Independent League. And both the Madison teams were the champs of their Mountain Valley Conference—the girls going undefeated. Nevertheless, neither Rebel team was intimidated.

The boys, after spotting Madison four runs in the first inning, went on to out-hit their hosts, 10-5, gaining four runs in the process, but finally succumbed, 5-4.

The girls managed to get nine hits off Madison's ace hurler, but could only get four runners across the plate, finally yielding, 11-4.

Girls' coach Jim Lunney said, "They grouped their hits a little better than we did." Madison spread their scoring over four innings, on 12 hits off Rebel pitcher Tanya Foster.

Boys' coach Bob Remington said, "That first inning did it. . . . After that we settled down and played well the rest of the way." Brandon Salway started for the Rebels. Shawn Smith took over in the second and went the rest of the way, with Salway taking over in center field, where he made four good catches.

"They ended feeling good about themselves," said Coach Remington about his players, "(but) nobody likes to lose."

10 get diplomas through adult ed

Ten adults received their diplomas last Tuesday in graduation ceremonies at Telstar Regional High School conducted by the SAD #44 Adult and Community Education program.

The graduates are: Troy Bennett, of Bethel; Philip Coolidge, of East Bethel; Alice Cox, of East Andover; Lisa Durgin, of Rumford; Tracy Jean Emerson, of Andover; Laura Lynn Morin, of Woodstock; Yvonne Nowlin, of Newry; Kimtha Roak, of Woodstock; Linda Lee Rolfe, of Albany; and Barbara J. Smith, of Andover.

Clayton Blood, of the Maine Department of Education and Cultural Services, was the commencement speaker. Mr. Blood is the state consultant for adult high school completion and GED testing and was instrumental in developing the External Credit Option

(ECO) for Maine. "It is particularly appropriate that Clayton Blood attend this particular graduation," said Adult and Community Education Director Cathy Newell, "as Yvonne Nowlin is graduating with all her high school credits earned through the External Credit Option program."

Mrs. Nowlin, who covered four years' of courses in 2½ years, has been involved in testing many of the curriculum packets developed for use in the ECO program and was singled out for recognition at the ceremony by ECO supervisor Randall Bennett.

Rev. Guy Downing, of the Bethel United Methodist Church, gave the invocation and the benediction. Welcoming remarks were extended by Superintendent of Schools Dewaine Craig and Ms. Newell. Student Recognition awards were presented to graduates by faculty members Ann Holt, Mr. Bennett and Ms. Newell. A reception followed the ceremony.

GRADUATION

SAD #44 ADULT ED PARTICIPANTS received their high school equivalency diplomas in ceremonies at Telstar last week. The graduates are: seated, Alice Cox, Laura Lynn Morin, Linda Lee Rolfe, and Lisa Durgin; standing, Yvonne Nowlin, Troy Bennett and Kimtha Roak. Not pictured were: Philip Coolidge, Tracy Jean Emerson and Barbara J. Smith.

FOLLOWING COMMENCEMENT CEREMONIES AT GOULD ACADEMY Saturday, parents and friends congratulated the graduates as they came out of Bingham Hall. (The proceedings had to be moved inside the hall when heavy rain began to fall.) Inset: graduate Samantha Welsh has a tearful farewell with a friend before packing up to leave Gould.

It's Haines, Coolidge, Chadbourne and Eliot in Bethel town election

In an election that saw only 323 Bethel voters show up at the polls on Monday, incumbent Selectman Peter Haines and incumbent School Director Kay Chadbourne easily held onto their seats.

With only one three-year position being contested, Mr. Haines received 158 votes. Edleen Winslow garnered 120 votes and Burt Hejduk was a distant third, with 40.

Victor Coolidge ran unopposed for the unexpired one year remaining in Danny Davis' term and received 285 votes.

Mr. Haines was also elected as an assessor for three years, as was Mr.

Railroad Museum update

On May 29, the board of directors of the Bethel Area Railroad Museum met at the RFD #1 Restaurant. Possible sites for housing the museum were discussed further, but as of this writing nothing definite has been decided.

A motion was made to change the name of the museum to "Bethel Area Steam Era Railroadiana."

Ed Quinn's knowledge of the railroad and the area has been most helpful and his attendance at the meetings is inspirational to all.

A date has not been set for the next meeting. For further information, call 824-2202.

Andover voters approve buying new plow truck

At a special town meeting in Andover Tuesday night, the 50 voters who showed up approved the purchase of a new plow truck, with wing, for $58,890.

The town already has $30,000 in the equipment fund to help pay for the truck. Another $20,000 will be taken from surplus. The voters authorized the selectmen to borrow the balance, if necessary.

Selectman Laura Hutchins said afterwards it was possible that no money would be borrowed, since by the time of delivery—in October—there might already be enough tax revenues in the treasury to pay the balance.

Voters also authorized spending $300 to replace the elm trees that were removed from Main Street.

They declined to go along with town officials' recommendation to delete swimming lessons from the town's recreation program in order to save $600. Officials argued that too few children were involved in the program to justify the expense, but voters thought otherwise.

Town meeting authorized spending around $1,000 to hire Ace Security, of Lewiston, to work with town residents in order to stop the rowdiness that has marred (last year with a fatality) the annual July 3rd activities in town.

Officials from Ace Security will instruct townspeople on ways to avoid the problems that have become endemic on July 3rd and will train volunteers to control the situation. The security officials will begin the training this Friday night at a session to be held in the town hall at 7 p.m. All interested persons, including teenagers, are urged to attend.

Moderator of the meeting was Ken Dixon.

New stump dump opens June 8 in Greenwood

The new Greenwood/Woodstock stump dump on Rte. 219 will open June 8, selectmen of both towns decided last week. At the same time, the old dump site will close.

The new site will be open by appointment only. If you wish to use the new stump dump, you must call 527-2254.

The selectmen of the two towns also discussed the possibility of adding new hours to the present schedule at the transfer station. They considered adding two or three hours Tuesday and Thursday nights. (The present dump hours are 1-5 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays.)

As there was some opposition to this plan, though, the new schedule has been tabled until a joint meeting of the two towns' selectmen on June 13.

'Pop Goes the Mountains' symphony concert postponed

The "Pop Goes the Mountains" Portland Symphony Concert to be held at Sunday River Ski Resort the evening of Saturday, July 20, has been postponed until the summer of 1986. Scheduling conflicts with other Portland Symphony concert summer locations was cited as the major reason for postponing the concert until next summer.

There will be no lack of music in Bethel as the annual Mollycoddett Fiddlers' Contest sponsored by the Bethel Lions Club will be held on the Common that evening. The Mollycoddett Day activities will end with a bang when a grand fireworks display, sponsored by Sunday River Skiway Corporation and the Bethel Inn, will light up the skies over Bethel.

Young thespians did great job

If you missed last week's performances of "The Pied Piper," at Woodstock Elementary School, and "The Jungle Book," at Agnes Gray School, you missed a good time.

It was quite extraordinary, the spirited and polished performances the grade school students turned in. (And this is without mentioning the Garfield-award winning act of Principal Dave Murphy, the cat in "The Pied Piper.")

The teachers who got the students so enthused, and thereby got the best from them, are to be congratulated—Liz Mikenas, at Woodstock, and Dan Barker, Jim Burke and Bill Koch at Agnes Gray in West Paris. There were also the unsung parent volunteers for costumes, scenery, what have you.

And the children who took part all deserve kudos for the great job they did. If you missed their performances, be sure to be in the auditorium the next time a play is presented. You'll come away with a much better feeling about your local schools. bfw

Let's give capitalism a chance

Businesses are like people—some perform extremely well and some do extremely poorly, while the vast majority function adequately.

Under our capitalistic system, which rewards innovation and managerial expertise, entrepreneurs and good managers move to the top quickly. Henry Ford and Thomas Edison are just two examples of what our economic system can produce when it's operating properly.

The problem is, there are those who don't want to allow the capitalistic system to operate. In our system of open competition, successful enterprises move ahead while unsuccessful ones drop out.

The state's Public Utilities Commission, however, believes that the greater the demonstrated incompetence of a company, the greater should be its economic reward. Adam Smith would roll over in his grave. Last week the commissioners voted to allow Central Maine Power to charge off 70 percent of its $200 million investment in Seabrook to the customers instead of having the company's investors shoulder the burden.

Inherent in investing is risk. That's why company's pay dividends and interest to investors—to pay them back for the risk they took. For the person who doesn't want to take a risk with his money, there's always the mattress or the safety deposit box.

What would you do if the farmer down the road, from whom you've been buying vegetables for years, comes to you one day and tells you he's going to double his prices on the tomatoes because the mango crop he was trying to grow turned out to be a bad bet and he lost a lot of money. For sure you'd tell him what you thought of his way of doing business and you'd quickly buy your tomatoes elsewhere.

If he couldn't absorb the losses, he could sell his farm and someone else could try his hand at it, and maybe stick to growing tomatoes and leave such exotic things as mangoes for those in warmer climates.

There's no difference between CMP and the unlucky farmer—except that CMP has political clout. They didn't ask their customers for permission to invest in the exotic Seabrook nuclear plant, and they shouldn't come sniveling back expecting help when they find their investment was foolish. And the Public Utilities Commission should have the backbone to tell them to take care of their own affairs. bfw

If you enjoy throwing your money away and need a gift for that special smoker on your gift list, consider buying an ashtray from the Grumman Corp. The U.S. Navy recently paid $650 per ashtray.

Well, no one ever said an adequate defense would be cheap. bfw

Democracy in America—150 years later

Editor's note: 1985 marks the 150th anniversary of the publication of Alexis de Tocqueville's "Democracy in America." Tocqueville had come to America in 1831, to discover what the future held for his native France. What changes would democracy bring? What did democratic society look like? The young American democracy was the place to come for answers, because the question of democracy was working itself out in practical terms. Professor Catherine Zuckert, of Carleton College, looks at Tocqueville's analysis of American democracy.

In 1831, a young French aristocrat came to the United States to obtain a view of the future. In 1835, he published his findings. Reading Alexis de Tocqueville's classic analysis of "Democracy in America" 150 years later, we cannot fail to be amazed at his foresight.

How could an inhabitant of nineteenth century Europe, then ruled entirely by monarchs, know that virtually all nations would soon become republics? How was he able to predict that within a hundred years, the only claim to political legitimacy would be service to the people, whether or not the government was free? How could an observer of the American Union, divided over slavery and of the backward, barbaric despotism reigning in Russia assert that these two nations would emerge as the two great world powers?

Tocqueville made these predictions on the basis of a strong sense of historical necessity. Human beings, he observed, were everywhere becoming more equal to each other. The great gap between the few wealthy, educated landholders and their many impoverished, ignorant peasants, characteristic of pre-modern societies, was gradually being reduced by modern developments in the world economy and in society.

Men who see themselves essentially as equals will not tolerate aristocratic rule, Tocqueville predicted. There was no question in his mind, therefore, as to the egalitarian tendency of all politics in the foreseeable future.

Egalitarian politics are not necessarily free politics, however. Tocqueville thought that men might well try to level all differences, to destroy all distinctions among individuals and all personal independence of thought and action in the name of fostering equality. Like Marx, Tocqueville saw that all nations are basically divided into two economic classes, and that this division between rich and poor is reflected in political alignments.

Tocqueville feared that in a democracy, the poor majority might try to use its political power to oppress the rich, for example by confiscating

GETTING RID OF THE RATS was the job of the pied piper, in the play of the same name, performed at Woodstock Elementary School last week. From right to left, piper Meri Howe leads the rats (played by Brandy Russo, Julia Johnson, Heather Roberts and Dawn Davis) away, while the mayor, Cindy Hammel, and a councilman, Althea Stevens, make sure the rats go. Another councilman, Merle Evans, and Heidi, Jessica Koskela, and a townspeople, Theresa Connell, watch the action.

AGNES GRAY SCHOOL 5th and 6th graders put on two rousing performances of "The Jungle Book" at the West Paris School last week and may perform it one more time this week.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I would like to commend you and your staff for your fabulous "NEV" look. I graduated from Gould Academy in 1981 and have kept a subscription to The Citizen ever since. I really enjoy the paper.

Your new typestyle and new paper really enhance The Citizen. I truly enjoyed your supplement on tourism. Very nicely done.

I also liked the idea of the paper-covering envelope. It would seem to me that it would be a good idea for each issue, especially for the ones travelling a long distance. I hope that you will again use that.

Once again congratulations on your new look.

and redistributing all their possessions. Unlike Marx, however, Tocqueville thought that historical events are the product of the interplay of several factors—institutions and opinions as well as economic interests. Because men can affect the outcome of this interplay, Tocqueville thought that men could take steps to preserve their liberty in an age of equality.

The great question for Tocqueville was, how could this be done? It would not be sufficient simply to let history run its course, he observed. The strong tendency toward centralized administration in modern egalitarian regimes threatens to destroy individual independence even without intending to do so. It was necessary, therefore, not only to identify the source of the danger but also to know what would work.

A new political science was necessary for the new era. Men would have to recognize not only the economic interests but also the moral and political passions which drive human beings. They would need, moreover, to come to understand the way in which laws and institutions shape popular opinion, because human beings act in politics on the basis of their opinions.

Modern men can preserve their freedom, that is, their ability to think and act for themselves, under conditions of equality, Tocqueville argued. Electing the government, with the freedom of speech, press, and association guaranteed by law, is an important means of securing the populace from oppression. But elections are not enough.

To rule responsibly, elected officials must govern by law; but for laws to be effective, they must have broad popular support. And to obtain that support, Tocqueville argued, two things are essential. First, the people must feel that they have a part in making the law. Widespread popular participation in political decision-making is possible only if some governmental functions are divided up and distributed among local councils. Masses of people cannot assemble and effectively participate in the legislative process in the state or national capital.

Second, the vast majority of the people must believe that they have a stake in preserving the existing political order. That is, they must think the current order benefits them personally; and the vast majority will feel this only when they own property.

Both of these conditions will prevail, Tocqueville said, only if political leaders intentionally seek to produce them. The dominant political and economic forces in the modern age naturally move in the other direction. Unless people clearly perceive the advantage of local politics, for example, both parties and governments tend to become increasingly centralized and nationalized.

Likewise, the more wealth becomes a matter of income or paper (stocks, bonds, checks) rather than land and household, the harder it is to see the connection between protecting the integrity, privacy and independence of the individual and respecting the rights of property. As a result, government regulation or even ownership of property becomes increasingly the rule rather than the exception. In an age in which "people's republics" are prevalent, and liberal democracies rare, it is clear that too few politicians have attended sufficiently to the lessons Tocqueville taught.

$3.5 million budget approved for SAD 44

In an annual budget meeting of less than 25 minutes duration last Wednesday evening, a gross budget for fiscal year 1986 of $3,577,440 was approved by less than a hundred SAD #44 voters.

The spending levels for the next year were approved with no questions raised from the floor as to specific areas. Pat Hudson of Bethel voiced opposition to the overall 12% increase in the gross figures over a year ago, saying that the district can not afford such increases in excess of the rate of inflation. The net budget (that assessed to the district's member towns) is 9% over a year ago.

In addition to the SAD #44 operating budget for FY 86, $15,971 was approved as the local share of the cost of adult education.

The Regional Vocational Budget (NOVA) of $216,969 was approved 83 to 8 with several SAD #44 board members in opposition because of long-standing dissatisfaction with the NOVA program. The dissatisfaction is fueled, in part, by the small number of SAD #44 students involved in the vocational program and the resultant high per-pupil expense. The NOVA program will cost SAD #44 $53,570 in the upcoming fiscal year.

The expense of the local share of the $3,577,440 ($1,420,371.80) operating budget will be assessed to the member municipalities of SAD #44 as follows:

Andover	$366,300.65
Bethel	474,004.02
Greenwood	208,846.04
Newry	127,385.14
Woodstock	243,835.95

William Cousins served as moderator of the annual session, held at the Telstar auditorium.

SAD #44 BOARD TO MEET MONDAY, JUNE 10, AT TELSTAR

The SAD #44 Board of Directors will meet in regular session in the library at Telstar Regional High School next Monday evening, June 10, at 7:30.

Agenda items will include: a proposal by director Harry Davis concerning a summer music program at Telstar; placement of a fourth kindergarten class at the Ethel Beebe School for the 1985-86 school year; posting of positions available for the summer only (three custodial, one maintenance); review of elementary self-evaluations.

Travis Buck spent Memorial weekend as a guest of his grandmother, Mrs. Peggy Estes and family of Orrs Island. While there, Travis enjoyed a deep sea fishing trip, returning home on Monday.

These guys want you to stop wasting your tax dollars.

Wildfires in our country are a terrible waste. A waste of natural resources. A waste of natural beauty. A waste of money.

Yet every single year, over one billion in tax dollars goes up in smoke. That's what it costs to protect our nation's resources and fight wildfires.

So, think of these famous faces next time you're in the great outdoors. And remember, only you can prevent forest fires.

BETHEL TOWN MEETING

The contract with Mr. Kuzyk stipulates that the town will pay all bills for labor and materials, and will, after the job is completed (by Oct. 15), pay the contractor's fee of 10 percent of the material costs. The town will also likely pick up the worker's comp costs for Mr. Kuzyk and his crew, the selectmen decided.

Town Manager Lynch said, after town meeting, he felt the earlier action by the selectmen in contracting with Mr. Kuzyk deflected any opposition. Selectman Arlan Jodrey had said, on Monday night, "Politically it might be better if we sign it (the contract) tonight."

The contract, while not specifying any total cost for the project (other than the understood upper limit of $72,241) makes clear that costs are to be shared wherever possible. The selectmen modified the architect's plans by changing the shed roof design to a 5-12 pitched roof, and changed the southern lumber specified to local lumber. Work is to start around June 15.

The other articles that were expected to provoke heated discussion at town meeting were the proposal to purchase a new grader and the proposal to spend over $20,000 improving the landfill. The Galion model A-500E road grader is expected to cost $82,992, plus interest. The town already has $35,000 set aside in the capital equipment fund, and town meeting authorized borrowing an additional $47,992 to make up the purchase price.

On the landfill question, Mr. Lynch explained that the money to be raised will be used for covering the existing trenches and building a mounded landfill. He said the original intent had been to use the money for testing and design work to dig a new trench. The State Department of Environmental Protection recently informed the town, however, that there is already groundwater pollution at the site and digging another trench would be unacceptable. "We have to cover over the existing trenches and mound over the site," Mr. Lynch told the voters.

On the question of raising and appropriating $100 for the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce, Merton Brown led the opposition, saying, "I personally feel the money for the chamber should come out of chamber activities and not out of town funds." On a hand count, the majority of the voters agreed.

Robert Saunders attempted to amend the article allocating $120,000 from surplus to reduce the tax rate. He suggested increasing the appropriation to $140,000, but the amendment failed, and voters went with the original suggestion of $120,000. There is an estimated $200,000 in the surplus account, according to the town manager.

Norm Clanton successfully amended, by making the original motion, an article that allocated $5,000 being given the town by Gould Academy. Whereas the original allocation gave only $500 to the police department, Mr. Clanton changed it to read $1,000, while reducing the amounts given for public works and hydrant rental.

Following the adjournment of town meeting, in less than an hour-and-a-half, Mr. Lynch told The Citizen he expected the tax rate to be 1 to 1 1/4 mills higher than the current rate, which is $23.30 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

OGUNQUIT BRIDGE PLAYERS ENTERTAINED AT CASCADES CONDOMINIUMS

Fourteen enthusiastic bridge players from Ogunquit joined the Bethel players in Cascades Condominiums at the Sunday River Ski Resort recently. They arrived Tuesday afternoon, enjoyed swimming in the Cascades pool and then rode the Barker Mountain chairlift to the top of the mountain for a gorgeous view of the surrounding mountains. Tuesday evening a group of 22 people dined at the Madison Motor Lodge, Rumford, followed by a fun evening at Cascades Condominium. Wednesday morning, following a continental breakfast, 18 Bethel players joined the Ogunquit players for a day of bridge.

A luncheon served by the Sunday River Food Service Director, Chris Kinney, was enjoyed by all and the players finalized the at 4:30 p.m. with the following prizes awarded: (1) Barbara Douglass (B); (2) Cynthia Gotjen (B); (3) Barbara Merrill (O); (4) Barbara Lucas (B); (5) Ruth Wright (B); (6) Marge Littlefield (O); and the "glad you could come" to Sue Lafferty (O).

Gould graduates 64 in rainy ceremonies

Over 500 people attended graduation ceremonies at Gould Academy last Saturday as 64 seniors received their diplomas.

The ceremonies were moved inside Bingham Hall after rain began falling on the crowd assembled on the lawn in front of the hall. The rain held off just long enough for the graduates to march to their seats and hear commencement speaker Dr. Robert E.L. Strider, II, president-emeritus of Colby College, instruct them on their duties for making the world a better place, while not forgetting to smile at life.

Earlier, baccalaureate exercises were held in the West Parish Congregational Church.

When the ceremonies moved inside the auditorium, the following awards were presented:

- Headmaster's Bowl, to Jennifer L. Allen;
- Alumni Association Award, to Heather M. Hill;
- Elwood F. Ireland Award, to Michele B. Healey, Theodore W. Brown II, and Arn Chorn-Pond;
- Scholarship Shield, to Michelle M. Prince, who delivered the valedictory address;
- Honor Plaques, to Jennifer L. Allen, Matthew G. Bevin, James W. Feeney, Michael J. Greifendorf, Martin J. Grohman, Michelle M. Prince, Janet C. Sanborn, Ruth E. Wescott;
- Gayle A. Foster Award, to Heather M. Hill;
- Bausch and Lomb Award, to Michael J. Greifendorf;
- Linwood "Lindy" Lowell Award, to Arn Chorn-Pond;
- Francis "Hi" Berry Award, to Michele B. Healey;
- Joe Roderick Award, to Michael S. Angell.

The Academic Book Prizes were awarded as follows: English, Michelle M. Prince; History, David S. Moreshead; Calculus, Michael J. Greifendorf; Computer Science, Michael J. Greifendorf; Navigation, James W. Feeney; Physics, Lawrence R. Willis; Honors Physics, Martin J. Grohman; A.P. Biology, Michelle M. Prince; Spanish III, Heather M. Hill; Forestry, Martin J. Grohman; Pottery, Michael J. Greifendorf; Senior Art, Jennifer Griffin; Music and Theatre, Heather M. Hill and James M. Moore.

The Army ROTC four-year scholarship award went to Matthew G. Bevin. Following the ceremonies, an elegant buffet luncheon was served to all.

The kitchen staff also had prepared a banquet Friday night for 245: graduates, parents and faculty. The class gift and class banner were presented to the school at that time.

Over 100 Andover pupils fingerprinted

Over 100 children were fingerprinted last Wednesday at the Andover Elementary School, according to Principal David Murphy. Jointly sponsored by the Andover Parent Teacher Organization, the Oxford County Sheriff's Department and the Andover Elementary School, over 90 percent of the elementary school children were fingerprinted by Deputy Bert Averill. Other children had been fingerprinted at a previous clinic offered in Rumford.

In addition to the elementary students, nearly 20 Telstar students arrived after school to take advantage of the opportunity.

The Child Registry Handbook was distributed by the Andover Parent Teacher Organization at below cost to interested families. This publication was developed as a positive deterrent to the continuing epidemic of child abduction. By completing all of the information in the handbook, parents can assure maximum identification of their child. In addition to the fingerprints, the registry contains records of medical history, dental charts, footprints, identifying characteristic charts, and much more pertinent information.

Any parent or organization interested in this program may contact David Murphy, at 392-4381.

STATE PLAYOFFS

For the coach, it was his last game as varsity mentor. Because he is not allowed to coach more than two varsity sports, he has elected to give up the baseball team and continue coaching varsity soccer and skiing. He will coach JV baseball, however, he said.

Coach Lunney, who expects to coach varsity softball again next year, said the girls were a little down after their loss, but praised Madison as being "a good solid team."

A goodly number of Rebel rooters made the two-hour trip to Madison, which pleased the players. "There was good support up there," commented Coach Lunney.

The girls finished conference play with a 9-2 record and were 17-9 overall, including exhibition and playoff performances.

The boys finished 6-3 in the conference—8-4 overall, not including exhibition games.

Chamber of Commerce annual banquet tonight

"Tonight is the night," remarked Barbara D. Brown, commenting on the 1985 Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce annual banquet. Mrs. Brown is chairman of the event, which will be held at Sunday River Ski Resort's South Ridge Lodge, beginning with a 6-7 p.m. social hour, complete with complimentary appetizers. This will be followed by an expansive, tasty, and "all you can eat" buffet, featuring ham, beef, turkey, sea food, assorted vegetables, salads, breads, desserts and beverages.

A short business meeting will follow dinner, after which service and achievement awards will be presented to two outstanding high school seniors and five distinguished citizens, all from this area. The entertainment portion of the evening will feature Ted White and his country-western band, which recently delighted a local audience in a concert at Gould Academy.

The banquet planning committee feels that an outstanding program has been prepared and extends a cordial invitation to residents from all surrounding communities to attend this special chamber function. Tickets can be purchased at The Shop, Prim's, RFD #1, and from chamber directors, and they will also be available at the door.

"Don't miss this chance for some friendly conversation, a great meal, the awards presentations, and the big Nashville sound of Ted White and his country-western band," reminded Mrs. Brown.

Oxford farmers register 653 acres in federal program

When the 1985 farm program sign-up period ended April 1, Oxford County farmers had enrolled 653 acres, or 18 percent of their eligible feed grain acres, in the federal government's acreage reduction program.

Roger Smedberg, chairman of the Oxford County ASC Committee, said Oxford County producers enrolled nine farms in the program and agreed to take out of production 10 percent of their feed grain base acres. "This means that about 65 acres of cropland in the county would be idled this year, depending on how many acres of program crops are planted by participants," Smedberg said. The cropland taken out of production must be devoted to an acreage conservation reserve to protect it from wind and water erosion, he said.

Designed to control excess crop supplies and maintain a level of stocks in line with market demand, the acreage reduction programs offered incentives to farmers to reduce plantings. Program participants will be eligible for price support loans on corn. They are also eligible for target prices of $3.03 per bushel for corn.

Don Chretien is going to be a patient at the Maine Medical Center and will be having bypass surgery the end of the week. He will probably be in for a week and will then stay with his son and daughter-in-law in Gray. Cards may be sent to: MMC, 22 Broomhall St., Portland, or P.O. Box 783, Gray, Maine 04039.

AN INDEPENDENT FAMILY NEWSPAPER, DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF BETHEL AND SURROUNDING TOWNS.

$1.25 Per Year, in advance. BETHEL, MAINE, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 5, 1985. Vol. 1 No. 1

We're 90 today

Ninety years ago today, June 5, 1895, The Bethel News first appeared on the streets and in the homes of the Bethel area. For 30 years this section of Oxford County had been without a newspaper following the passing of The Bethel Courier in the early 1860s. During the intervening 30-odd years the "doings" of the region had been recorded in the Paris Democrat and the Norway Advertiser, as it was apparently felt that the region would not support a weekly newspaper.

As is noted in the accompanying column (right) from The News' first issue, publisher Aked Ellingwood, who came here from Milan, N.H., had the project under consideration for nearly a year before the first issue. Mr. Ellingwood received the encouraging support of both subscribers and advertisers in his endeavor, and The News, and its successor The Citizen have long been accepted as a permanent institution in Bethel and surrounding area.

Mr. Ellingwood was joined by E.C. Bowler in 1896, with Mr. Bowler assuming sole control in 1897. The Rumford Citizen was established in 1906, merging with The News in 1907 to become The Oxford County Citizen. Fifty years ago, on June 6, 1935, it became The Bethel Oxford County Citizen.

Following Mr. Bowler as owner of the paper were Fred Merrill, David Forbes, Carl Brown who later formed Citizen Printers Inc., which was the owner until September of last year when it was acquired by Citizen Press, Inc., with Bernard Wideman as publisher.

For its first three years of publication the paper had an eight column format, changing to six columns, thence to a five column tabloid look in the 1930s, returning later to the six column layout. In the beginning all the type was handset until the acquisition of a Linotype in the early part of this century. The Citizen converted to offset early this spring.

The Bethel of 1895 was without electric lights and telephones; telephone wires were put through in September of that year. The pipes of the Bethel Water Company had been in use for less than five years and rural mail delivery was not to come for several years. Post offices were still maintained at North, South, and East Bethel. With automobiles, garages, and service stations still in the future, the sale of bicycles was booming. Stores were open every evening, but a group of merchants had decided to close two nights a week during the summer.

Survival for 90 years has been possible only through the loyal support and cooperation of advertisers and readers and the paper's publishers through the years have been deeply appreciative. A populace that was less supportive would have seen the demise of a local news and advertising outlet at a point long since past.

Newry

By AMY HANSCOM

Alice Gay has been discharged from the hospital and is at her home on the Branch Road recovering from injuries received in an automobile accident on May 9. She is expected to be confined for two to three more weeks.

Mothers, children and chaperones are to meet at the picnic area on Route 2 between 8 and 9 a.m. on June 19 for the trip to Storyland.

The Newry selectmen met Tuesday morning, May 28. A non-binding franchise was signed with Bethel Cablevision, Inc. It is expected that it will be some time, probably about 18 months before cable TV is ready in Newry. Several other area towns signed with Bethel Cablevision ahead of Newry. It is expected that it will be ready in Bethel sometime this summer. In other business on the 28th the selectmen discussed tarring roads. Plans are to tar a section of the Roderick road and the Littlelake or Monkey Brook road. A coat of gravel is to be applied to the latter road before tarring. It was expected that the final valuation figures would be received from Linda Sanborn of Integrated Municipal Services soon, in preparation for the assessors fixing the tax rate. Tax bills should be out in mid-June. A two percent discount will be allowed on taxes paid within 30 days.

Nancy Wight, Thelma Lowery, Betsy Clark, Louise Tetley and Gilbert Seeley were in Rumford bowling on May 28. Thelma Lowery was high scorer with a score of over 100.

Amy and Roger Hanscom were at their place in town Saturday.

Sue visited the Glovers, then Owen did his good deed for the day for them. Congratulations, Diddy!

The budget for SAD #44, for FY 86, that was approved on May 29, is up 12 percent from FY 85. Andover shows the greatest increase, with 44.6 percent. Newry is up 7.5 percent, and Greenwood slightly over one percent. Bethel and Woodstock both show slight decreases. Newry, with the smallest number of pupils, shows the highest per pupil cost, $2,403.49. Bethel with the largest number of pupils, 463, shows the smallest per pupil cost, $1,023.77. In presenting this, the initial number of "The Bethel News" to the citizens of Bethel and surrounding towns, we make no excuses and offer no apologies. We give you as good a paper as our limited acquaintance with the place and people enables us to do.

For nearly a year we have had the establishment of a newspaper at Bethel under consideration.

We have gradually worked the idea out and now come before you with our first number.

The Bethel News will be published Wednesday of each week.

The subscription price is $1.25 per year, payable in advance.

The paper will be non-political, its object will be to further the interests of Bethel and surrounding country, to furnish the news of the County and to furnish pure reading for all classes.

We solicit items or articles of interest from everybody. Please consider this an invitation to hand us anything you think may be of interest to the public. If you have visitors, if you are going away, if you are going to build or repair your house, if you know of entertainments, marriages, births, or deaths, call at the News office and tell us about it or write the matter up and send it in.

We want the people of this vicinity to feel that this is their paper and they have a right to use it as they see fit. Look this number over, and if it interests you and you think you would like it for a year call at our office and leave your token of appreciation.

WEST PARIS STORYTELLER JOE PERHAM made a new recording at The Outlook recording studio, in Bethel, last week.

Joe Perham preparing to release new record

Have you heard the latest Joe Perham story about his neighbor Ole Olson?

Ole, according to Joe, who told the story during a recording session at The Outlook in Bethel last week, "owns the most beautiful real estate this side of the Pearly Gates." And therefore it wasn't at all strange that a fellow in a car with Massachusetts plates should stop along High Street in West Paris and look at the vista across Ole Olson's barnyard.

Nor was it particularly strange, according to Mr. Perham, that the stranger should ask Mr. Olson, "Why do all your cows have horns except for that one?"

"Well," says Ole, "I'm glad you asked me that."

And then he proceeds to tell the stranger that there are a number of reasons why cows don't have horns. One, he says, is that some cows get diseases in their horns and they fall off. Two, some cows are ornery and a farmer might cut their horns off. Three, some cows bang into trees and knock their horns off. And four, in this era of genetic engineering, some cows are being bred without horns.

"But the reason that animal over there doesn't have horns," Ole continues, "is because it's a horse."

The couple of dozen friends invited to the recording session laughed and guffawed, and it was all picked up by the mikes and transferred to a tape, which will be cut and made into a couple of new records. Mr. Perham already has four records on the market, and a fifth—Outhouse Two—is expected quite soon.

The tape made last week is for a sixth, to be called, "Trap Corner Revisited." The stories and one-liners were quintessential Perham, with the underdog getting the best of the establishment. Even Mr. Perham's wife came off well in this description of his gift on their 31st wedding anniversary, which was also last week.

"I bought her one of them waterbeds," Mr. Perham related, "to put some excitement back in our marriage...She calls it The Dead Sea."

As usual, there were lots of stories about local folks in West Paris. Mr. Perham read off a number of wacky letters written, he claimed, to Selectman Hugo Heikkinen, seeking assistance.

Clyde, of whom Mr. Perham says: "His elevator got stuck in the basement," was in a number of stories, as usual. And so was his mother. She had moved recently to a modern house, and wrote her son, "It's got a washing machine. I put in 14 shirts last week and pulled the chain and haven't seen them since."

West Paris resident Harry Burgess is introduced, complaining about "matrimonial indigestion." "My wife doesn't agree with me," he says, according to Joe.

And the town itself comes in for some good-natured ribbing: "The town of West Paris is so small the politicians have to put their hands in their own pockets," says Perham.

Only Fire Chief Philip Edmunds and his crew are heroes. Racing to a grass fire, the West Paris volunteers drive their 1949 pumper right into the middle of the field, right into the midst of the fire, and then proceed to extinguish it in short order.

A reporter commends the chief on his daring method of firefighting and asks him for a comment. Says the chief: "I think it's time the town fixed the brakes on that truck."

North Paris

By EVELINE B. VATCHER

Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Vatcher attended the wedding of Brenda Marie Millett and Roger Lacroix at St. Catherine's Church, Norway, on May 25, also the reception at the Norway Legion Hall. It was a beautiful day for the wedding. The beautiful wedding cake was made by Mrs. Bethany Bean. There were dainty refreshments and lovely gifts.

The ham supper at the North Paris hall on May 25 was a success.

Monday was our usual rainy Memorial Day. Thursday, May 30, would have been a beautiful day for a parade and all the young folks marching with their flags. Oh well, we just can't win.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vatcher went to Danvers, Wednesday to get Mrs. Fannie Vatcher and brought her to North Paris to visit until Saturday June 1, when they will take her back to the nursing home and Joe will attend the strawberry shortcake day ceremonial and feast. They also called on Joe's sister, Mrs. Fannie Whitten of Swampscott, Mass. Mrs. Vatcher talked on the phone with her son and wife, Everett and Beatrice, of Lynchburg, Va. She loved the dandelions, rhubarb sauce, blueberry muffins, etc., and she even slept like a log. Eli Kroat of Long Island, N.Y., was a surprise guest Wednesday evening. He is spending several days at his summer home in Bridgton working on a new septic system.

Callers at Lawrence's: Arnold Coffin, Joe Vatcher, Joe Kalinowski, Odell Heath, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Penley Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Albert Downing, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Millett, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bean, Rhoda Vatcher.

Word from the "Pete" Collettes say "Pete" cannot be operated on. Something about a bulge in the aorta. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ilsley of Booneville, N.Y., are spending a 10 day leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Ilsley.

Harlan and Faye Abbott went to the Wilson's Mills cemetery Sunday with flowers.

North Paris had a heavy frost Wednesday night but Joe Vatcher had covered his garden and cut the asparagus. He has planted peas three times and has about 15 plants so far.

A moose ambled through the Vatchers garden Tuesday night.

Gilead

By LOUISE LORING

Now we are about to see June in all her glory and splendor.

Strawberry time denotes the season, and as they redden and ripen upon the vines, the scent of them hangs heavily upon the meadows. How peaceful it becomes to lie and meditate in the tall green grass, mingling with the musky smell of "Indian Ferns." Fresh white daisies are strewn about amidst splashes of bright yellow buttercups, dotted here and there with the orange reds of the paint brushes galore. To see the vivid array of colors delights the eye, and work within the house never does get done. For June is a month to be enjoyed with all the senses, your fingers to feel the silken petals of rose buds, your lips tasting the ripened berries, and splashes of them stain your fingers red and spot your clothing—the taste lingers upon your palate, a delicacy provided by the gods, for we the lesser beings to enjoy.

June is bustin' out all over!

The orchard's profusion of sweet pink blossoms fill the air—and as their petals fall they are blown about by the gentle breezes kissing the sunlight as they pass by. Lilacs are in bloom and their heavy aroma outside our windows, scents the entire house within.

Blue skies o'er head, and a canopy of green grass at our feet—a pastoral scene—never to be surpassed—who could ask for more?

So sprawl in your hammock, look up at the fleecy white clouds as they prance overhead like newborn lambs in a blue meadow.

Look for the robins' nests—watch the swallows dip and soar—at eventide, as a woods thrush bid us mellow good-night, and noises from the frog pond lull to sleep.

Clover blossoms and sunsets, clouds of gold, silver roses and blue are reflected in the still glass of the lakes and rivers.

June is here—spreading sunshine everywhere.

We have a taste of heaven at our doorstep. Savor all the beauty of its days and enjoy—soak it all in! God bless and peace.

Bryant Pond

By ALICE F. HOYT

The combined Youth Groups from Bryant Pond and West Paris Unitarian Universalist Churches have sponsored two dances to make money to send to Ethiopia to help feed the children. They made $105.23 total—this will be sent to the Unitarian Universalist Service Committee. Any donation over $50 will be matched by the North Shore Society. Seven dollars will feed one Ethiopian child for a month so this will feed 15 children for a month.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ring were weekend guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Linwood Ring.

Mrs. Monday, June 10, is roller skating for church groups at the Oxford Roller Rink, 6:30 to 8:30.

I have heard many good comments on the essays the children read and the speakers. Thanks to all who took part.

Over 50 children joined the parade.

Daughters of Union Veterans will meet on Monday, June 10, for a regular meeting at the Grange Hall.

At this time the W.H.S. Alumni Scholarship will be given out.

He started his ministry in Pastor Linwood Hanson's home church in Bradford, Maine, then went to Calvary Baptist Church in Brewer, and then on to the First Baptist Church of Weymouth, Mass., until 1984. "Have Bible Will Travel," appearing on his letterhead, describes his present ministry of Bible expository preaching.

Notes from the Woodstock Historical Society

The Woodstock Museum contains a library for use by the public. The Society would like to see it utilized more fully. The reserve section boasts Ruby Emery's research on Bryant Pond, many old and rare volumes, and books valuable in historical research as well as copies of town reports and Woodstock High's old Eureka.

While these books may not be signed out, all the other books, located in the Opera House shelves, may be. These latter include general history books, literary criticism religion and philosophy, art volumes, arts, crafts and hobbies, education, technical text books, and some classics.

The purpose of the library is to provide a cultural and research supplement to the regular public libraries in the area. They provide popular light reading for the most part, while the museum library offers in-depth surveys of particular subjects. We urge the public to use these volumes, which may be signed out for a month at a time during the summer. Assistant Curator Louisa Noyes has very generously donated her time to catalogue these books.

This week's meeting of the Historical Society will be at the museum and feature a talk on Williamsburg by Eva B. Twitchell.

In addition, on display will be recent donations to the museum from Ruby Emery, Annie Crockett, the Robbills, Spike Noyes, Kay McAllister, and Larry and Robert Billings.

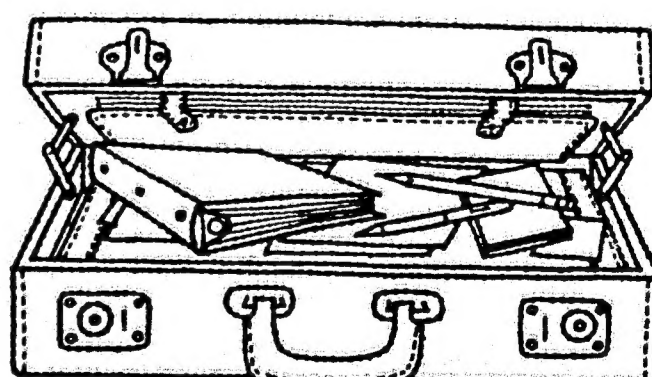

Much thanks must go to those who have helped to watch the museum and sales for the society in recent weeks, especially Annie Crockett, Louisa Noyes, Mary Billings, Elena Noyes, and Curator Larry Billings.

SKYWATCH

The long days that come with summer bring with them longer periods of twilight before sunrise and after sunset so that only about five hours of night are dark enough to let us enjoy the fainter stars and meteors of the season.

For early risers, Venus is in its best Morning Star glory this month as it moves nearly 46 degrees west of the sun and glimmers near the eastern horizon six times the brightness of the brightest star about two hours before sunrise.

Mercury, the fleet-footed mover makes it's way around the far side of the sun early this month and enters the evening sky, but the long twilight will make it difficult to capture until it puts more distance between itself and the sun in early July.

Constant Saturn, represented by the ancient symbol of the grim reaper, a/k/a Father Time, is still in Libra which is close to the southern horizon in the evenings. East of the gold colored planet, a red star, Antares, marks the heart of Scorpius the Scorpion. Antares is one of the largest of the bright stars. Together with Betelgeuse in Orion the Hunter, Antares is one of the coldest old super giant stars that is as bright as first magnitude. Such a comparison is easily made with the wealth of modern scientific information that astronomers and physicists provide for us, but the ancient Greeks and Romans may have been making a similar comparison with the mythological tale that involves these constellations. To the ancients, The Scorpion of the summer sky represented the demon that bit and killed the renowned provider, Orion.

The Scorpion, however, is one of the oldest recognized star signs, originating with the ancient pseudo-science of astrology. Images of the scorpion abound among ancient artifacts. The desert crab appears on an Egyptian zodiac carving, a sarcophagus dating from the time of Ptolemy, the mace head of the Pharaoh, Ip, a scarab from the 18th dynasty about 1400 B.C. and on a modern carved cowrie shell from India. The symbol of the scorpion was inscribed on talismans to ward off the effects of the animal's venom in ancient times. If we had not migrated and forgotten the cultural heritage of our ancient ancestors, we might now be wearing double headed amulets bearing the images of the mosquito on one side and the black fly on the other.

In case your curiosity has been piqued over the coming of Comet Halley (pronounced HAUL-ee), don't stay up late looking for it yet. The dirty ice ball is still about 428 million miles distant and so dim, that a telescope must have a lens at least 20 inches across in order to capture the hairy wanderer. Don't despair. It will become visible beginning in November and during this pass, we will have opportunities to view the comet once in the fall and then again in the spring.

The planetarium at the University of Maine at Orono will feature special programs this fall that examine the real and the cultural aspects of this most famous of comets, including a nearly successful human sacrifice at the time of its last pass in 1910.

"Skywatch" is furnished by the planetarium at University of Maine at Orono.

We visited the East Bethel Cemetery and found that the frost had hit the marigolds and another plant, redhot something, but the geraniums, pansies and petunias were OK. I never realized that marigolds were so tender.

I must remember not to put live marigolds in the cemeteries until after the first week in June.

By CLARICE GIBSON

Memorial weekend was nice through to Monday and then we had some much needed rain. This was kind of too bad because a lot of parades, either got rained out altogether or else got rained on. As it was rainy, Frank and I rode down to our son Jim and family in Freeport. Going through Gray they had large flags on each light pole and they looked so nice waving. A lot of people were also lining up to march. Our granddaughter, Heather, will be three June 1 so we had an early get-together. Out back Jim showed us the ladies' slippers. He must have had 100 in one bunch and other bunches with seven or eight in them. After dinner Heather and I laid down. The rain on the roof was so soothing that I must have fallen asleep. On the way back we went to Allen Hill in Oxford to my brother's, Dan Hill and family. Dan fixed us potluck while Shirli and I visited. She was doing laundry as she teaches at the Hartford school.

Tuesday I had invited Evelyn Larson's Women's Bible Study Group here to see the apple blossoms in bloom. Eleven attended and those who wanted stayed to lunch. Elaine Packard was thoughtful enough to come sweep through before they came. I had said they would have to take us as we were, but really was glad of her help.

A lot of people stayed home and planted their gardens over the weekend to get out of the heavy traffic they would have encountered on the roads.

Thursday, May 23, Evelyn Hilborn, Frances Farnum and Louvie Coffin went to Oxford and South Paris shopping and had supper at Goodwin's. Friday, Evelyn picked me up to go to Berlin, N.H., shopping and we also ate dinner out. Saturday, Evelyn went to Norway with Louvie Coffin and they had lunch.

Bob and Joyce Stearns, Debbie, Dawn, Ryan, and Rusty Seames, went to Abbott's Anchorage Sunday for a picnic.

Chuck and Merideth Mason, children of Mr. and Mrs. Chockie Mason, and Jessie and Vickie Coolidge, children of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Coolidge, all have had the chickenpox.

Frank and Ida Chapman went the 23rd to Ogunquit to Blaine Moore's motel and spent the night. Blaine had a social hour in honor of the renovation of his motel. After, Blaine took the ones from Bethel to a local restaurant to eat. These were Steve and Peggy Wight, Louise Lincoln and Frank and Ida.

The 24th, Guy and Vi Parker, Lester and Ruth Butters went to the East Stoneham rummage sale and had lunch. Saturday, Ruth and Lester, Ernest and Alberta Angevine went for a ride and had lunch in Norway.

Sharon Kimball brought some flower plants to her mother's, Sylvia Benson's, and put them in for her. She also took care of her plants that were already up by digging around them and weeding.

Sylvia Benson visited her sister, Judy Small, Hebron, Sunday and they went to supper Saturday night. Sunday, Sylvia and Judy picked up another sister, Helen Harlow, North Leeds, and visited graves in Bath, Brunswick, and Freeport. At Freeport they visited an aunt, Bertha Knights and her daughter, Ella. The three sisters ate in Brunswick.

Billy Penner went to Plattsburgh, N.Y., for the weekend. He is spending the summer at his camp on the Androscoggin.

The 28th Leslie Lapham visited his friends the Will Helms of Andover and had supper.

Lee, Terry, Beth and Diana Blake of Augusta came for the weekend to the Blake camp, at Songo. Charlie and Ruth Mason went to visit them Sunday and had supper.

Jerry Davis, Cheshire, Mass., visited his sister and husband, Ginny and Bob Keniston, Memorial weekend. Jerry came to visit his mother, Elsie Davis, at Stephens Memorial Hospital. The Dr. Shaw family visited her parents and uncle, while he was there.

Sunday, the Shaws stopped at Bruce and Shirley Powell's new campground in Hanover.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bond visited his sister, Thelma Merrill, Joe and Gerry Shimamura, the 25th and 26th. On the 26th they went to Norway to help Bill Shimamura put up stairs in the Barn. While at Thelma's they had a barbecue which Billy, Dawn, Juston and Shandy also attended.

Thursday, the 23rd, Judy Coolidge had a baby shower for Jolene Shimamura. Gerry Shimamura made the cake. About 28 teachers and friends attended.

On May 27, the Victor Coolidge family took an anniversary cake to his folks, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Coolidge, East Bethel. They had their 51st anniversary on May 29.

NEW SIGN IN LOCKE MILLS: The Hofbrau put up its sign last week on what used to be Jordan's Restaurant on Rte. 26 in Locke Mills. New owner Christa Smith, second from left, says the restaurant will feature twin lobsters for $10.95 on weekdays. She will also be serving breaded pork cutlet, as it is prepared in her native Germany, and home-made desserts. Almost all the fare is American, and modestly priced. The restaurant will have its grand opening Father's Day, June 16, and will be open for breakfast, lunch and dinner. Remodeling is currently going on—building a lounge, which will be open until 1 a.m., and generally sprucing things up. The new owner is also installing two dozen boat spaces in back. Checking on the work last week were, Wendy McGroarty and Mary Gillies, of Gillies Realty, which handled the sale, and Russ McDonald, of The Real Estate Exchange, in Massachusetts, which assisted in the sale. Ms. Smith is from North Easton, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Clements entertained with a family party of relatives Sunday in honor of the graduation of their son, Bruce. He was graduated from RPI, Troy, N.Y., this May. There were around 20 present for the occasion.

Dan Cales of Chelmsford, Mass., spent the weekend with David Clements. He also attended RPI.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Young and granddaughter, Heather Harvey, called on Olive Davis Monday afternoon. They are from Long Branch, N.J., and drove up from there to spend two months at their cottage in Shadowland at Bryant Pond. Heather Harvey drove them up Saturday. She will fly back home Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Miclon spent Memorial Day with his parents in Buckfield.

We had a wedding at Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wing's Saturday when their son Richard Jr. took Karen Leonard of Sumner for his bride. A reception followed at the Legion Hall in the afternoon for the happy couple.

Moose are becoming plentiful. People are reporting them real often now.

Esther Davis and I started out Thursday morning to tend to my lots in Albany and Bridgton. We made a couple of calls at Songo Pond. No one home. Then we went to North Waterford after decorating the Pingree lot in Songo cemetery. We called on Gladys Knight. She was going to Portland to get a brace for her arm. I did see her as she was on her way. We continued on to North Bridgton cemetery where we decorated the Foster lot and Willard and Annis Bryant's and my brother Laurant Pingree's lots. Then we went to see my sister Lill Harmon and Arthur Andrews where we had dinner. We returned home by way of Naples, Casco and Bolster's Mills.

Memorial coming the 27th is too early to put plants in urns. They have been hit by frosts when set out on the 30th. Maine weather changes quickly and one likes to be sure, and not buy plants to be killed by the frost the first thing. Sorry they changed the date.

Esther Davis invited Erland Twitchell and me to dinner Friday noon. Erland was having a week's vacation from work. He was entertaining a cold so left early to get a bit of rest.

Joyce Hathaway has been confined to her bed with back trouble for a few days.

Memorial Day, May 27, was a very rainy day. It spoiled some of the local parades. However we needed this moisture very badly, so can't complain.

Esther Davis and daughter, Patsy Tibbetts, and granddaughter, Jackie, were in Freeport, Monday, where they joined with Mr. and Mrs. David Shorey and Torri for a cookout.

James Mason and son, Jerrold, were in Moosehead this weekend looking for antlers. They were able to bring some home. The moose have been dropping them, as usual, this spring.

Craig Ryerson and family were home over Memorial weekend. Craig is first sergeant of the Bangor Recruiting Battalion. The family, including the two children, Matthew and Deanna, placed a wreath on the honor roll monument.

By COLISTA MORGAN

The sun had just risen on the morning of another day. The air was all fragrance, and it was hard to tell how to separate this from the birdsongs, both wild and free.

There were lilacs, the allspice blossoms, that grown so abundantly on the farm and here at home. I think it was Edwin Merry who described them best. "Maine lilac-fluid is pumped up by sun-vibrations of mothering May—sucked up out of cold, cold clay syrup, a major miracle indeed!" The lilacs in the top farm field are indeed the most spectacular of them all. It is worth a trip each year to view them and the clouds spontaneously forming patterns above the mountains. It's a special spot where the sky forms a roof over the valley; the peaceful singing of the birds and nature surrounding it all.

As always it seemed the catbird was flitting through the hedge, its call demanding an answer.

I could look down to the pond. The swallows were putting on a display of aerial acrobatics. Great numbers of them were sitting on the wires.

Ponds are fine companions for contented people and birds. Rivers for those of changing moods and where its valley is clothed with trees and flowers and the thrush sings at dawn and dusk.

I walked from the lilac hedge into the trees where a stream twinkled and sang its special song.

The trees were heavy with green foliage and the hills wore their carpets of velvet grass.

There was the drone of a farm tractor somewhere down the hill, as I walked toward home.

Down Mosquito Lane the little beasts were fierce but they were matched by number one for one by the lovely blue violets.

I had almost forgotten that a May day could be so balmy—so lovely.

Near home I stopped to greet the Jack-in-the-Pulpit. These quaint little peapods ensconced in their delicate pulpits, are well known to all who love the woods.

My house lay nestled under the shadows of old trees and everything was quiet; a time to remember far, far back to other springs and the fragrance of "allspice lilies" of the farm.

Callers at the Hayes Homestead were Duane Hayes and children, West Paris; Ardell and Betty Hayes, Auburn; Wallace and Nancy Hayes, West Paris.

The rains came (good). Mr. and Mrs. Don Gregson were here at their home for the holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Forbes took Hazel Allen to the cemeteries.

Linda Allen and Rose Mary Smith took their mother and Aunt Polly to four cemeteries Saturday. Most of the Lovell and Stoneham ones were well mowed.

Callers at the Smiths this week: Roy Smith and Mary, Stephen and Jane Henderson, Donald and Carolyn Knight, Kathy, Tim and friend; supper guests Don and Phyllis Gregson, Marj and Brad Crosby.

Marj Crosby and Pauline Smith attended the rummage sale at Stoneham, Friday.

Louis Snyder visited at Pauline Smith's Thursday.

We had a good rain Wednesday; 34 this morning. Sorry to hear of Gladys Kilgore's of East Stoneham fall and break. Gladys is 80 some years young.

on Monday. Bernard Morgan who spent five weeks in the hospital was moved to Ledgeview on May 28.

We went with Carl and Lettie Brooks to Portland on Thursday. While there we visited an old friend whom we have known for many years. She, Bessie Roberts, will be 90 this fall. We hadn't seen her for several years but found her spry and active. She lives alone and had changed very little.

On Sunday, May 26, Leonas, Fay, and Ann Holt, and Clyde and I went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sambar on Sabbath Day Lake to a birthday party for Mary Holt, age two.

On Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holt of Windsor and two of their children came to visit Bernard Morgan at the Hospital then their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonas Holt. Edith Lang, West Paris, was also a caller.

Ernest Mundt, Bethel, visited us on Tuesday. Clyde is busy with his landscaping and I have most of my seedlings in—hope there won't be a frost.

West Paris

By JUDY McLAUGHLIN

Comings and Goings About Town:

A large group from West Paris camped at Cathedral Pines, Eustis, over the Memorial weekend. Included in the group were: Joe and Peg Perham; Joe and Kathy Gizinski; Jara, Luke, Meryl, and Feona; Gregg and Dixie Inman; Audrey and Abby; Diane Koumalainen; Vernon and Miriam Inman; and Prince; Marshall and Susan Inman; Walter and Kim Inman; Vernon and Walter Jr.; Byron and Mary Inman; Connie and Vance Bacon; Beverly Dean, Stacy and Darcey; Sayward and Cynthia Lamb; Princess and Snowflake; Dede and Everett Chase; Milton and Eleanor Inman and Heather.

Peg Perham and Joe and Jara Gizinski climbed Bigelow Mountain to Horn Pond on Horn Peak. The hike was nine miles round trip and them nearly seven hours.

Beryl Bonney picked up Dot Ross at Hampden Highlands last week. Dot enjoyed a two week stay with her cousin Rose Porter.

Helen Fuller, Pioneer Street, is going to spend her vacation the week of July 4 with her daughter, Betty Ann McClure, and grandchildren, Cristy and Michael, in Bedford, Ind. She will fly Delta at 7 a.m. out of Portland on June 29.

Anyone who has been saving grocery tapes from Shop & Save stores for the Universalist-Unitarian fund-raiser should turn them in to Mary Emery by the end of June.

The two dances sponsored by the West Paris and Bryant Pond Youth Groups netted $105 for the starving in Ethiopia. The money will be turned in to the UU service committee where anything over $50 will be matched by the North Shore Society. So the two youth groups are responsible for over $200 help for the Ethiopians. That money will feed 30 Ethiopian children for a month.

The Eleanor B. Forbes Goodwill Group will meet at 9 a.m. on June 11 at Lettie Brooks' farm for a "Fir Party."

Lettie Brooks and Avis Stelhorn are on the dinner committee.

Sixteen children at the West Paris school read 241 books to raise $188 for the RIF (Reading is Fundamental) program. The RIF program provides children in grades K through four a free book three times during the school year. The Read-A-Don is sponsored by Ron and McDonalds. The following won

The school play "Jungle Book," presented by the fifth and sixth grades last Thursday was a great success and was well attended by parents and students at the afternoon and evening performances. It is a very dedicated group of teachers who will give up lunch hours for two months and spend breaks planning and discussing details for such an event. It is a heart-warming experience to see individual children gain confidence in themselves and learn to cooperate and interact with others. Thanks once again to the teachers who were willing to cooperate with this unique learning experience, Danny Barker, Jim Burke, and Bill Koch.

THE MILKING PARLOR at the Hastings farm has 10 computer-regulated milking stations. The machinery milks the cows and then sterilizes itself. But Warren Hastings and his assistant, Doreen Dyke, still have to do the final cleaning up.

WAITING THEIR TURN, the Hastings herd lines up before the feeding stalls in the barn. The cows can enter the feeding stalls whenever they wish, but the computer-operated machinery will only put food into the stall six times a day for each cow.

High tech helps local dairyman produce more milk

In the 1950s there were 28 dairy farms in Bethel, says dairyman Warren Hastings. Today there are only four—Hutchins, Blake, Carter, and Hastings himself.

And yet, the quantity of milk produced in town is greater than ever, Hastings reports, based on information gleaned from the milk truck driver who picks up the perishable commodity every other day.

What decimated the ranks of dairymen three decades ago was the change from container pick-up to bulk pick-up, with most of the farmers unwilling to put in the expensive refrigerated bulk holding tanks for their milk after wholesalers stopped purchasing milk by the can.

The bulk holding tanks were just one more way in which the dairy industry has changed over the decades, says Mr. Hastings, whose farm on the Middle Intervale Road sprawls on both sides of the road.

Back when his father was running the farm earlier in the century, horses and wagons were the preferred method for getting work done in the fields. These gave way to tractors and corn planters and silage shredders and automatic balers and hydraulic lifts.

"Horses were his generation. Machines were mine," says Mr. Hastings.

"Computers are for the younger generation," he says. And that's why he was scared by the thought of financing computers in his barn. But, with the help of financing from The Bethel Savings Bank, and with his own energy and desire to improve his herd and his herd's production, he went ahead and installed a computer in his barn, and has never been happier. "I now have my evenings free," he reports.

Previously, he didn't finish with his afternoon milking chores until 8:30 p.m. Now he's done by 6:00. That's because the computer takes care of sterilizing all the milking machinery after the more than 100 cows have been milked.

The computer also operates the automatic milking machines placed on each cow, stopping the suction when it senses the cow is cleaned out, and getting the suction cups out of the way so the cow won't step on them.

The computer also keeps track of how much milk each cow gives each day and provides a printout with that information.

On the feeding side of the production cycle, the computer is programmed to provide a certain amount of feed to each cow, and to provide it over the course of the day. In this way, a cow cannot gulp all her grain at once, nor can she go over and eat grain meant for a different animal, nor will she be shortchanged on the amount of grain the farmer wants her to get.

This is how it works: each cow wears a computer tag around her neck with her identification number. The grain is delivered in four feeding stalls. When the cow goes into one of the stalls to eat, her tag comes in contact with a sensing unit that tells the computer which cow is in the stall.

The computer has been programmed to provide so many pounds of grain to that cow, in six feeding periods. When she shows up, the computer commands the hopper to begin dispensing grain at a slow rate of speed, so that it doesn't build up in the trough.

When the feeding period is over, the grain stops being delivered. The cow can come back again and get more—but no more than six times. If she comes back more than six times, the computer will note her presence, but will not provide food.

At the end of the day, farmer Hastings gets a printout showing how much grain each cow has eaten and how many times she went to a feeding stall.

He says he's saving on grain bills because he used to provide the same amount of grain for all his cows, and some needed that amount while others did not. In addition, some would not finish what he set out and others would come and eat it.

Now he's able to get just the amount of grain he feels is best for a cow to that particular cow. Moreover, if a cow is feeling poorly and stops eating her normal ration, he knows about it that very day.

The final way in which high tech has entered Mr. Hastings' barnyard is through genetic engineering. Utilizing the services of a sperm bank in New York State, Mr. Hastings can order sperm from any one of a stable of Holstein bulls to impregnate his Holstein heifers, choosing the sperm that will give his herd better production and better characteristics.

For example, if one of his cows with a particularly low udder is to be bred, he will choose sperm from a bull that has a track record of siring cows with high udders. If one of his fractious cows comes into heat, he may want to have her impregnated with sperm from a particularly docile bull.

Just a phonecall on an 800 number to the sperm bank in the morning, and a technician is on his way that very afternoon.

Mr. Hastings, who admits he was doubtful about his ability to adapt to all these high-tech advances in dairying, is delighted with the results he's getting—saving on time and materials, and improving production. His next move, he says, is to tie in the feeding part of the computer operation with the milking part, so that the computer can decide—on the basis of how much milk a cow produces, and with what percentage butterfat—how much grain a cow is to get.

A computerized operation, while allowing him to leave the barn earlier in the evening, doesn't mean dairy farming has become an armchair business. Mr. Hastings is still up before dawn for the first milking of the day, and he still makes a trip to the barn before going to bed, just to make sure everything's all right with the herd. The computer can take care of itself.

Many of you need no explanation of lumbering operations of 30 years ago and earlier, but there have been so many changes since the chain saw, skidder and other innovations, I will explain a bit of what it was like in the 40's or just prior. A main road was laid out from one end of the lot being cut to the landing which was usually a body of water where the pulp could be floated to the mill. Lots of little roads ran from this main road through the sections where a crew cut and hauled their pulp to the main road via a twitch horse. The teamsters had a pair of horses and sled with which to pick up this yarded wood and haul it to the landing. There were turn-outs along the road where an empty sled could be driven off the road to let a load pass by. Of course, the loads were all going one way and the empties the opposite until one day in Jim's (Barnett) camp when his two sons-in-law met on the same road, each with a load. One or the other had for that time lost his sense of direction. Since each was sure he was right, neither wanted to unload by muscle and pulp hook, pull off the road, and reload the same way. After some delay and discussion which I'll leave to your imagination, but will tell you they were both good-natured fellows, another load came along indicating which teamster was in error. There was a great deal of discretion and no one would tell which man had to load the same pulp twice that day. Perhaps each felt he could be next, including the third teamster!

The June meeting of the Locke Mills Community Club will be cancelled due to illness in the community. The next meeting will be the second Tuesday in August, the 13th.

Once again the Greenwood Auxiliary flea market had to be cancelled due to lack of support.

Mrs. Margery Swan was very surprised recently by a visit from Herb and Betty Wright of Ames, Iowa. They were travelling east to visit relatives and came down through Canada so as to be able to see Marge. They have kept in touch since Betty and Marge shared a room at the YWCA when Marge was attending Northeastern Business College in Portland. Apparently the women were the more durable as both the college and the YWCA building are no longer in existence.

Visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Mills Sunday were cousins Lloyd Sykes and mother Bertha Dee, and Vivian Daicey, Portland; and Beatrice Eames, Falmouth Foreside.

On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gaudet of Yarmouth held a cookout at their camp as a combination birthday party and baby shower. A cake was presented Kim Tuominen and Shirley Morse in honor of their birthdays and another cake was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Tuominen who are awaiting the arrival of their baby. Those present besides the Edward Gaudets were Bruce Tuominen, Velora Kimball, Johnny Gaudet and friend, Pam, Lisa Gaudet, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morse and Darren, Bertha Flinders, Cherry and Kim Tuominen, Laurie Morse, Scottie and baby Jessica, and Cherry Tuominen's parents from Yarmouth.

Mrs. John Mills accompanied Mrs. Gerry Shimamura to Norway Tuesday evening where they attended a housewares party at the home of Mrs. Dawn Shimamura.

The Greenwood Fire Dept. Auxiliary met Tuesday evening at the Fire Station with Flossie Bernier, Sally Melville, Denise Swan, Mary Stone, Barbara Dunham, Cheryl Young and Eli present. Fundraising projects were discussed. The next meeting will be a supper meeting with the West Paris Fire Department and Auxiliary being invited guests. The date will be June 24, at 6:30 p.m. Bernie Wideman took pictures of the Auxiliary to be used in a future article.

Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. John Mills were in Rumford where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bucklev, and then attended the evening services of the Assembly of God. The Bucklevs will be leaving for their new home on the west coast directly after the graduation of their son, Paul, from Rumford High School.

Manon Swar is gaining at the Rumford Community Hospital, Room 354. On Wednesday, Mrs. Mary Mills and Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Mills attended the visiting hours for their cousin, Flora Martin Morey at the Andrews Funeral Home. Mr. and Mrs. Lee Mills attended the funeral on Thursday.

Everett Cross remains hospitalized at the Stephens Memorial Hospital following a stroke. He is not, as reported last week, in intensive care, but his condition remains pretty much unchanged. He had a touch of pneumonia but that appears to be clearing up and he is eating better.

The Ladies Circle food sale netted $173.50 last Saturday.

Mrs. John Mills attended a meeting of the Women's Aglow Fellowship at the Town and Country last Monday evening. John Mills visited Paul Comtois at his home in Berlin, N.H., while Mrs. Mills was at the meeting.

Word has been received that Leland Farr is gaining at the Market Square Health Facility although he remains quite weak. His mother, Vi Churchill, is visiting her son, Arnold Farr, in Poland, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry San, Jr., and Todd, were camping last weekend at Lone Pine Campgrounds, Newry. Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Swan, Stacy and Josh, and Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Swan and Rebecca, joined them for a cookout on Sunday.

This is the week for retirements apparently. Evelyn (Diddy) Johnson retired from Bob's Corner Store, and Bill Roberts from the Ekco plant. We hope they enjoy their retirement, they earned it!

Ralph Mills came Wednesday to spend a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Mills. He reported a lot of construction on the highways and bridges through Vermont and New Hampshire.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mills were in West Greenwood Thursday afternoon where they enjoyed Ralph take down an old chicken coop at his camp. Then they all joined Mr. and Mrs. Earl Colby and boys for pizza and ice cream and cake in honor of Carl Colby's 15th birthday.

Gary Dunham, son of Herbert Dunham of Greenwood, and Sandra Morgan of Glen Falls, N.Y., along with his wife, Beverly Russell Dunham, have been accepted into the graduate school at the University of Virginia at Charlottesville.

Garv, a 1982 graduate of Bowdoin College and a 1978 graduate of Telstar Regional High School, was accepted into the anthropology department and will be studying North American archeology. He received a fellowship from Bowdoin College to finance his education. Beverly, a 1984 Bowdoin graduate and a 1980 graduate of Southwest Miami (Fla.) High School, was accepted into the English department and received two scholarships from Bowdoin College.

2nd-graders tour capital

Woodstock Elementary School 1st and 2nd graders toured the state capital in Augusta last week, at the invitation of State Representative Jeff Mills (D-Bethel).

When they returned to school, Joan Parker's 2nd-graders wrote letters of thanks to Mr. Mills.

Sarah Stowell wrote as follows: "I had a good time. It was fun. I liked it very much. Thank you for showing us through the building. It was very interesting. I felt patriotic. I hope we go again sometime. I liked the pictures of the governors. It was fun in the House of Representatives."

Lori Davis wrote as follows: "Thank you for taking us on a tour. When they gave us the standing greeting I was really happy. I had never been in a statehouse before. The best thing was seeing the capitol. I really liked it in the House of Representatives too. When you brought us to the stairs the first time it was really fun, because when I looked down the people looked small."

The school year is rapidly coming to a close. Many good things have been happening. Our school was well-represented at the District Science Fair in May, with Nathan Merrill winning a tie for first place in 5th grade competition, with his project on vibrating strings.

Maylene Cummings and Gwen Murphy, also in 5th grade, took a third-place with their water wheel. Saara Llimatta and Trina Piiirainen won a third-place in 6th grade competition for their project on laminating.

More recently, the two 4th grades presented a musical program called "This is Your Land," to demonstrate what they had learned in their studies of the regions of the United States. They presented a fine program of songs, readings and dances. Over 140 family and friends attended the evening performance.

The 5th and 6th graders presented the play "The Jungle Book" on May 30. A super performance was given by each and every member of the cast. A great deal of time and effort has been given to all of these endeavors by students, staff and volunteers and the results have been more than satisfactory. An A-plus for all concerned.

Another end-of-year activity will be our field day, to be held at Hebron Academy. Tennis, relay races, tug-of-war and a picnic are just part of an annual tradition that will be nostalgically remembered in years to come.

We will begin our next school year with some major changes. Because of the new addition to the Guy E. Rowe School, in Norway, South Paris students will no longer be bussed to West Paris.

Three teachers and one teacher assistant will be relocated within the district and will be greatly missed by those of us remaining.

The students involved in the change are a bit apprehensive, wondering what their new schools will be like and being sorry to leave friends. However, they will meet up again in junior high.

The West Paris schools will be returning to the community concept and will be made up of one class each, K-6. The vacated rooms will be used by specialists, a larger library and the 2nd grade, which will come up out of the basement.

GRADE 3 STUDENTS AT WOODSTOCK ELEMENTARY SCHOOL have been actively involved in lots of creative writing this year. Their final, and favorite, project was the writing of their own picture-story books. They began by writing a favorite story. The finished product was the result of many revisions and lots of editing. Illustrations were made to correspond to the written material. Parents Nancy Cross, Louise Kangas, and Peggy Selner helped with this job. Parents and children held a story show night in which parents got the chance to read their child's work as well as others. Refreshments were served and an enjoyable evening was had by all. The students, with their storybooks, are: seated, left to right, Diane Russell, Kelsey Cross, Chris Harlowe, Scott Johnson, Penny Taylor, Kris Evans, Teresa Curtis, Patty Hand; standing, Kristi Silver, Ben Hoyt, Sharon Kangas, Billy Chase, Jaimee Bolio, Chris Howe.

A.P.T. COMPLETES BOTTLE DRIVE

With the help of 5th and 6th grade students of the Andover Elementary School, the Andover Parents and Teachers (A.P.T.) recently raised over $350 in a town-wide bottle drive.

Coordinated by Sharon Hutchins, John Emery and Roger Sabin, every street in town was covered.

Money raised will go towards field trips and other end-of-the-year activities at the Andover Elementary School.

GIRL SCOUT DAY CAMP

TO BE HELD JULY 22-AUG. 2

Girl Scout Day Camp will be held July 22-Aug. 22 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. every day for two weeks in Bethel on the Intervale Road. The camp will have Girl Scouts and friends from Dixfield, West Peru, Mexico, Hanover, Andover, Rumford, and Bethel. There is a fee of $40 for the two weeks, although if you would like to be a Unit leader and have two children that would be coming to camp there would only be a $5 fee.

It is planned to have swimming, hiking, outdoor crafts, and a lot of fun. Contact Cindy Blake (824-2735) or Leslie Cooley (824-3326) if you are interested in being a camper or a Unit Leader or could help in any way.

Jim Keith

Local man begins program of backpacking for adults

Jim Keith, of West Bethel, a graduate of Unity College's wilderness-based outdoor recreation program, has established an organization called Maine Wilderness Adventures, which offers backpacking trips for adults and families. He believes this is a group that is not currently being served by other backpacking enterprises, which generally cater to youth.

Mr. Keith's trips are structured to give hikers an enjoyable experience, in addition to teaching important skills—for example the use of equipment, map and compass, hiking techniques, wilderness cooking, and safety tips.

Mr. Keith, who is a former state wilderness director for the YMCA camp in Winthrop, began organizing hiking trips informally a few years ago and is now undertaking the venture on a larger scale, with the help of three associates. This summer will be their first season.

Tri-Town Rescue

Tri-Town Rescue congratulates Ken Bacon, Susan Litchfield, Sylvia Evans and Ray Seames for passing their EMT certification tests last week. EMT's must recertify every two years to keep on top of the most recent changes in the field.

Congratulations to all the seniors who are graduating this week and next. Tri-Town wishes them all the best in the future and a safe celebration of this important event.

The training meeting will be at Woodstock Elementary School, June 26, with a pretend mass casualty. Only through practice do the members have an opportunity to learn how to handle several patients at one time.

Safety tip of the week: Drinking and drugs slow down a person's reaction time. Many seniors are graduating soon. Tri-Town is very pleased with the many Project Graduation events planned to celebrate in a chemical-free atmosphere. We would like all the seniors to live to enjoy the rest of their lives. Please don't ride with someone who has been drinking and don't drive yourself when under the influence of drugs or alcohol.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

All members and friends of the Bethel Historical Society are reminded that the monthly meeting will be held on Thursday, June 6, in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House beginning at 7:30 p.m. Featured speaker will be Roland DeCoteau of Paris Hill who will make a presentation entitled "William Rogers Chapman: Musician" which will deal with the musical career of one of Bethel's most famous men. Anyone interested in attending is cordially invited to do so. Refreshments will follow the program.

The spring issue of The Bethel Courier, quarterly newsletter of the Bethel Historical Society, was mailed to all members and friends late last week. Anyone interested in obtaining a complimentary copy should call the society at 824-2908 or write P.O. Box 12, Bethel, Maine 04217.

The Society recently received a copy of the catalog A Truthful Likeness: Chester Harding and His Portraits published by the National Portrait Gallery in Washington, D.C. Harding was one of the most popular portrait painters of the nineteenth century. Among some of his notable subjects are Presidents John Quincy Adams, James Madison and James Monroe, explorers William Clark and Daniel Boone, statesmen Daniel Webster and Henry Clay. In several cases his portraits remain the most notable representations of these and other significant Americans.

Harding also painted the portraits of Doctor Moses Mason and his wife Agnes Straw Mason. Photographs of the Mason portraits appear in this catalog. Anyone wishing to see this catalog is invited to stop by the society and gain an insight into the career and work of this extraordinary artist who rose from the western frontier to the salons of Boston and London.

PILGRIM FELLOWSHIP FINALIZING PLANS FOR WASHINGTON TRIP

The Pilgrim Fellowship of the West Parish Congregational Church is making final preparations for its trip to Washington, D.C., June 15-21. The itinerary for the week includes discussions with Senator Bill Cohen, Senator George Mitchell and Representative Olympia Snowe as well as visits to museums and governmental buildings.

The group has spent its weekly meetings this spring studying issues such as defense systems, current foreign military involvement, foreign trade problems, etc., in preparation with meetings with congressional delegates.

The PF will hold its final fund raising event, a yard sale and sports equipment swap, this Saturday beginning at 9 a.m. at the church. Donations of items for the sale are welcome, and pick up can be arranged by calling Keith Wight at 824-2410. The group is also collecting returnable cans and welcomes donations to them as well.

Chamber of Commerce notes

The Bethel Chamber of Commerce met Tuesday at the home of Bernie Wideman. Final details for the banquet and a meeting agenda were discussed. Tickets will be available to chamber members and the general public at the door. The banquet is being held at the South Ridge Lodge at Sunday River, this Wednesday evening, June 5.

Sunday River will not be hosting the Portland Symphony on Mollycorkett Day, July 20, but will assist the Lions Club with the Fiddlers' Contest and along with the Bethel Inn will sponsor fireworks in Bethel. Mac MacMunn has contacted a color guard for the parade. The chamber will again plan for an information booth on the Common.

Bernie Wideman will check with The Traveller concerning a chamber cooperative advertisement in the summer edition.

The chamber will send a welcome letter and booklet to all Trekkers arriving June 27 for the Maine Lung Association's Bike-A-Thon to Bar Harbor.

There will be no meeting next week. The meeting of June 18 will be at the home of Rick Whitney.

Good Bugs For Bad Bugs

When insects invade a garden, many gardeners arm themselves rapidly for "battle with the bugs." On go the masks and gloves; out come the swatters, dusters and spray-guns. The summer-long war is on.

Yet such tactics usually produce what might be called pyrrhic victories: the pests are destroyed all right; but, in the process, "good" insects die with them—at the same time the insecticides drench the whole garden with poisons.

Left alone, nature can often handle the "bad bugs" pretty well, needing help only when a pest onslaught is severe.

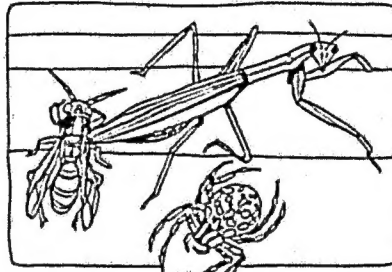

Many predatory insects ("good bugs") and other small garden creatures, make up nature's "hit" squads against insect pests. Dozens of helpful insects eat other insects, day in and day out. You can, with care, aid nature by enlisting the help of these "good bugs" in your own yard. What are some of them and how do you get them on your side of the fence?

Mantids: Relatives of crickets and grasshoppers, mantids are not the pests their cousins are. They're often called "praying mantises" and their appetites for insects are voracious. To recruit them for a garden, you can buy mantid eggs. Or you can get them (in the winter) for free by collecting the eggs from a field. Look along the stems of shrubs and wildflowers for elongated or globular egg masses, the color of dirty styrofoam. Simply place the eggs in your back yard (never in your house) to hatch in the spring.

Ladybird beetles: These little yellow, orange or red, black and white beetles are familiar sights throughout most of North America. Both adults and larvae eat pests such as aphids and related soft-bodied insects. Wherever their favorite food is, "ladybugs" are apt to show up on their own. But beetles can also be bought and brought home to dine. Mail order seed catalogs often list these beetles along with their other offerings.

Wasps: Many people can't abide wasps (large or small or any color), but to any wasp-respecting gardener, not all wasps are pests. Wasps are valuable garden allies. Large common paper wasps—they go by the scientific name of Polistes—go for caterpillars in a big way and are actually one of the gentlest of large wasps. (Hornets, yellow jackets and other paper wasps are much fiercer, and most homeowners can't tolerate them at all.) Tiny, parasitic wasps (which can be purchased) lay their eggs on insect pests. Some wasps—like many bees, flies and butterflies—pollinate fruit and vegetable plants, assuring good crops.

Spiders: Although not insects (but arachnids), spiders too help control insect pests. When you see large, beautiful, well-constructed webs, don't destroy them. The spiders that spin these webs prey on moths, crickets and grasshoppers—feeding mostly (except for the Argiope group) at night. Spinners of tangled, poorly constructed webs, on the other hand, are apt to be biters—which you can easily do without. Very small spiders are not necessarily good pest-fighters.

Predatory insects: are territorial. That is, like foxes and bobcats, they stake out their own spaces to rule. So don't overload your garden with one kind of insect-ally. Many will simply starve, leave the garden or eat each other up. Just-enough predators keep pests away—without spraying.

By LINDA CARON

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Norm Dock recently were Steve Dock of Limestone, Tenn., and Jim Dock and Paul Pitkin of Jamaica Plain, Mass.

Julia Brown spent a few days at the coast visiting friends in Brunswick.

Visiting Diane Saunders this past week were her daughter, Annemarie, and son-in-law, Kevin Peck, of Cummings, Ga.

Have you asked Cheryl Lord about her friend the moose? Now ask Dan Hodgins for his version of the story... bet they don't match! Cheryl tells me she enjoyed a mooseburger recently. When she told me all I could think of was, "Hey, Rocky, watch me pull a rabbit out of my hat!"

Speaking of Cheryl... she and sister Linda visited Portland over the holiday weekend. Never fear, Cheryl made it home safely. No moose would dare step in front of a speeding bullet... just kidding, my friend. Come to think of it, no moose would dare step in front of my car either, but then I drive a compact... I could just go given the legs.

Last week I told you Jaime had discovered dandelions. This week it's the moon. Now she throws hugs and kisses to the moon. My mother always told my sister's kids that the reason the moon is so bright is because the astronauts left the light on in the bathroom. If that you craziness runs in my family—but you wouldn't believe me.)

Country Music Department: Got my tickets for Larry's concert... I've locked them in my safe deposit box... My friend Linda Reynolds is going to Fan Fair in Nashville—as she has for the last several years—but this year is extra-special. As president of the Gatlin fan club, she hasn't been able to get Larry and brothers to show up at the booth. This year they will be there! And the Gatlin Brothers are celebrating their 30th year of singing together! Not a bad anniversary to celebrate considering Larry, Steve, and Rudy are 37, 34 and (almost) 33, respectively. So in a few weeks I hope to have some stories to tell about the goings-on in Nashville.

While on the subject of our favorite music—Now don't you go thinkin' that Jaime isn't well versed in country music... The other morning I was getting her dressed and a song came on the radio. Jaime immediately smiled and pointed to the radio saying, "Hehl!" (That's the closest I can come to spelling the word she says when she hears Larry's voice.) I did not prompt her! Not that time anyway. Jaime hasn't quite mastered Larry's name yet, but she does do well with "Steve" and "Rurrr."

On May 30 at 1:28 p.m. Jaime officially became two years old. Jaime's birthday party will be held after my deadline for this column so I'll tell you about it next week, but I wouldn't feel right if I didn't put something in my column especially for my "Sweet pea."

My Little One,

And now you are two. It seems like just yesterday I held you for the very first time. So tiny and helpless, all arms and legs.

And at two, you are still all arms and legs, but not helpless anymore. Ever learning, ever growing... away from me.

I will celebrate your second birthday

By HARRIET STOWELL

Visitors the first of last week at Ann Mason's were her grandson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Grant of Yarmouth and her granddaughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Crouse of Yarmouth and his parents of Pompano Beach, Fla.

Frances Bennett left this past week to spend some time with her sister, Evelyn Aremburg in Haverhill, N.H. Mrs. Aremburg suffered a broken arm in a fall recently.

Alanson Cummings was taken to the Osteopathic Hospital in Portland last Tuesday and remains a patient there.

Callers at the home of George and Harriett Stowell on Memorial Day were George and Mary Stowell of Falmouth, Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Stowell, Nathan and Melanie of Shirley, Mass., and Cecelia (Sweet) Adams of South Glastonbury, Conn., with her sister-in-law, Wendall Sweet of Farmington.

Bill Mitchell of Brattleboro, Vt., spent the long weekend with his mother-in-law, Maxine Lovejoy.

Fannie Cummings, Cathryn Lovejoy, and Dorothy West of Rumford were in Portland Thursday to visit Alanson Cummings at the Osteopathic Hospital.

Helmi Loffreda of Portland spent last weekend at the Lovejoys.

NEWS FROM THE

Bethel Health Center

The time has come for annual physicals for camp and school athletes.

Ten years ago a quick physical every year was common. However, recent studies by both the American Academy of Pediatrics and the American Academy of Family Physicians indicate that a thorough physical every two to three years for the healthy child over six years old is all that is necessary and that routine annual examinations on the healthy child are proving to be a waste of time and money.

However, since many camp and athletic programs still require some type of physical exam within a year, the health center will provide a brief screening physical for regular patients who have had a complete examination within the last two years.

A screening physical consists of a very brief examination of the child for major abnormalities and includes a blood pressure, vision test, urinalysis and a simple blood test for anemia, height, weight and tetanus booster, if necessary.

A complete physical involves all of the above plus an in-depth health history covering any illnesses, allergies, and injuries requiring medical attention, physical and mental development, etc.

Softball standings

After two weeks of play, this is the way the men's slow-pitch softball league stacks up:

Bryant Pond is clipping along at a .500 pace, with a 2-2 record. Rowe Hill has slipped one game below that pace, at 1-2, while the Andover Loggers are so far winless, at 0-3.

with happiness and sadness, a smile and a tear. You are mine, in my heart, for all eternity, but I must share you more and more with others as you grow and your world expands.

Happy Birthday, my little one, I love you more than you will ever know or understand. — Mama
